

Typical House of Worship Presentation System

This illustration shows a Knox RSIII Router and a TPC7 Controller used as the audio, video and control backbone for a typical house of worship presentation system. By utilizing the extensive audio capabilities of the RSIII fewer input channels are used on the audio console. Video sources can be previewed on the TP7 prior to routing to the displays.

